On behalf of the European Council for Steiner Waldorf Education, we are pleased to express our support for the collaboration with the Center for Waldorf Education, National Tsing Hua University in the area of media education in schools.

Through our HERMMES project, we have developed educational resources, materials, and training approaches aimed at strengthening media literacy and supporting teachers in their important work with students. We are committed to sharing these materials with the Center for Waldorf Education, National Tsing Hua University and to providing continued support through meetings, webinars, and other forms of academic exchange in Taiwan.

We believe that this collaboration will contribute significantly to promoting media education, equipping teachers with tools and knowledge to guide their students in developing critical media awareness and responsible engagement with information.

We are proud to support the Center for Waldorf Education, National Tsing Hua University in their efforts, and we remain committed to working alongside them to ensure the success of this initiative.
